Rules Of Procedure

Roll Call:

Roll Call is when the Chair calls each country to determine if they are present in the room. This is done in alphabetical order. When you hear your country's name, you should raise your placard and answer "Present" or "Present and voting".

● "Present'' - You can abstain when voting on a draft resolution.

● "Present and Voting" You must vote either "Yes" or "No" for every draft resolution that is voted on.

Motion to Start Debate:

After Roll Call, the chairs will look for a specific motion, which is; Motion to Start Debate.

Motion To Open General Speakers List (GSL):

After Starting debate the chairs will be looking for a specific motion and it's to open General Speakers List.

General Speaker's List is the Moment the delegates will state their speeches.

How does the General Speakers List work?

1. The chairs will ask if any delegates are interested in being added to the GSL.

2. Delegates show their interests by raising their placards.

3. Chairs will recognize delegates by calling their country's name, after which the delegate is placed on the GSL.

Point of Information:

- Chair's Inquiry: After the Delegate finishes speaking, the Chairs asks, "Is the Delegate open for any Points of Information?"

- Delegate's Response: The Delegate can specify how many POIs they are open to (e.g., "The Delegate is open to any and all POIs" or "The Delegate is open to two POIs"), or they can yield their remaining time to the Chair.

- Floor Invitation: If the Delegate accepts POIs, the Chairs will address the committee: "Any delegates wishing to ask a Point of Information, please raise your placards now."

- Selecting Delegates: After the floor Invitation if any delegates are wishing to ask a POI, Delegates should raise their placards, and the Chairs will select one delegate at a time up to the limit set by the speaker or floor rules.

- Questions & Answers: The selected delegate stands and asks a single, direct question related to the speech. The speaker then responds.

Yielding The Floor:

During the GSL, time can only be yielded to the Chairs. After a delegates complete their speech and any POIs, the Chairs will ask if the delegate yields the floor back to the Chair. The delegate should reply: "The delegate of [Country] yields the floor back to the Chairs."

Moderated Caucuses:

A moderated caucus is for delegates to discuss subtopics related to the main topic. The committee topic is usually very broad, so moderated caucus are used to narrow the discussion and go into more detail on certain aspects.

The length and the topic of a moderated caucus are chosen by the delegate who offers the motion. For example: “Venezuela motions for a 10-minute moderated caucus, 45 seconds speakers time on the topic of ‘How we can protect people from rising sea levels’”.

Unmoderated Caucuses:

An unmoderated caucus, informally called unmod or lobbying time, is when delegates get out of their seats, meet, form blocs, discuss ideas, negotiate, start writing their draft resolutions and finding support for their draft resolutions. When the unmoderated caucus finishes, delegates return to their seats.

Seconds and Objections

Second - When a delegate formally shows support for the motion that was raised. Almost every motion needs at least one second to be considered.

Objection - When a delegate does not support a motion.

Delegates can't Second or Object a motion they raised themselves.

If there are no seconds, the motion automatically fails.

If a motion has a second, the Chairs will ask for objections.

If no objections are raised, the motion will pass without further voting.

When a motion gets seconds and objections, the motion gets put on a list with other motions that also received seconds and objections.

When the Chairs decide they have received enough motions, the committee proceeds to vote on the motions.

Voting on all motions is mandatory for all delegates.

Draft Resolutions:

Draft resolutions are formal documents which contain your policy ideas, and those of other delegates, written according to United Nations formatting rules.

To get a draft resolution approved by the Chairs, the content needs to be clear, the formatting needs to be correct (200 word maximum, 100 minimum), and the delegates need a minimum number of supporters (1/3 of the delegates in the committee as Signatories).

The draft resolutions which are approved by the Chairs are the documents the committee will vote on in the voting procedure.

Sponsors – Delegates who wrote the draft resolution or played a key role in the draft resolution.

Signatories – Delegates who support the draft resolution or at least want to see the ideas discussed. (No limit on the number of Delegates listed as Signatories).

Defending Speech – A Defending Speech is presented by one of the Sponsors, and it's goal is to defend a draft resolution that was presented by the Sponsors and to convince the other delegates that the resolution is worthy of their support, encouraging them to vote in favor of it.

Speech In Favor – A Speech In Favor can be presented by any delegate in the committee, and it has the same goal as the Defending Speech.

NOTE: If one of the sponsors wanted to present a Speech In Favor the priority goes to them, but it cannot be the same one who presented the Defending Speech.

Speech Against – A Speech Against is the opposite of a Speech In Favor. It's goal is to convince other delegates to vote against a draft resolution

NOTE: Every committee will present only 5 Resolutions due to chairs discussion, and there will be an option for *merging clauses.

Each delegate must come to the conference with a pre-written clause.

Amendments:

After a draft resolution has been introduced, delegates are able to propose changes to the draft resolution, called amendments.

Amendments include adding a new clause, striking out a clause or changing the text of an existing clause.

Amendments are voted upon during voting procedure, before the draft resolutions are voted on as a whole. Each amendment is introduced and voted on separately,

NOTE: Amendments can be sent only during speeches against

Unfriendly Amendments - Amendments that are not supported by at least one sponsor of the draft resolution.

Friendly Amendments - Amendments that are supported by all the sponsors and automatically added to the draft resolution.

(Once each draft resolution has been presented and voted on, it will be added to the final document and submitted as an official resolution addressing the current conflict.)

Points:

A point is something a delegate raises when it concerns something the'd like to address for themselves. There are four points.

Point of inquiry: When a delegate is unsure of the rules and would like an explanation from the chair.

Point of personal privilege: When the delegate's experience is impacted. Going to the bathroom or turning on the air conditioner are points of personal privilege. Other Point of personal privileges are that a delegate can't hear the speaker or read the projected draft resolution.

Point of order: When a delegate believes that the Chairs have made an error/mistake that was made in the formal procedure.

Motions:

Motions are collected by the chairs and put to vote. The chairs has discretion as to when to allow motions to be offered and which to consider out of order at a given time.

Motion to suspend debate - To break for lunch, coffee break.

Motion to Close the debate - To close the committee.

Motion for moderated caucus – "motion for a moderated caucus of 8 minutes, individual speaking time 45 seconds, to discuss issue."

Motion for unmoderated caucus - "motion for an unmoderated caucus of 12 minutes." You do not need to give a reason for an unmoderated caucus.

Motion to introduce draft resolution - "motion to introduce Draft Resolution."

HSC Committee ROP

Permanent Five (P5) Members:

China /France /Russian Federation /United Kingdom /United States

1. Veto Power Mechanism: Each of these five permanent members possesses absolute veto authority. Consequently, a single P5 nation can unilaterally defeat any draft resolution, regardless of how many non-permanent members vote in favor.
2. P5 Consultative Caucus: A P5 Caucus enables these major powers to convene in an unmoderated, closed-door session separately from the other elected non-permanent members. The caucus may also invite up to three non-permanent members to participate in negotiations.
