FRANMUN 2026

Franciscan sisters' school

CRISIS committee: Research Report

Infinity Wars: When To Worlds Collide

(AVENGERS & THE JUSTICE LEAGUE)

Crisis

Characters:

MARVEL:

Tony Stark (Iron Man): The genius who built a suit of armor around the world. Once one of the Avengers' greatest leaders, Tony Stark now finds himself facing the consequences of the team's collapse at exactly the moment Earth needs them most. Having already escaped Thanos's forces and rescued Doctor Strange, Stark has proven that his greatest weapon is not the armor itself, but his ability to improvise when every plan fails.

Hulk / Bruce Banner: Banner, a physicist who earned his Ph.D. in nuclear physics from the California Institute of Technology. Bruce Banner's transformation into the Hulk has always been both his greatest weapon and his greatest burden. But after confronting Thanos aboard the Statesman, Hulk was defeated so completely that he refused to return when Banner needed him most. His scientific knowledge is crucial to understanding the Infinity Stones and the strange forces causing the universes to collide

Spider-Man / Peter Parker: The youngest hero standing against a threat that could destroy two universes. Peter Parker may lack the experience of the Avengers and Justice League, but his extraordinary agility, spider-sense, strength, and rapidly developing technological abilities make him an unpredictable asset on the battlefield.

Wanda Maximoff (Scarlet Witch): Earth’s most powerful reality-manipulating beings. Wanda's abilities have always placed her somewhere between human and something far more dangerous, allowing her to manipulate energy, overpower formidable opponents, and alter the battlefield itself. With the Reality Stone now hidden somewhere within Gotham, Wanda's powers have become especially significant. She may be one of the few beings capable of interacting with forces that blur the boundary between reality and illusion without immediately relying on the Stone itself.

Black Panther / T’Challa: The king of Wakanda and one of Earth's most capable leaders. T'Challa combines the strength and enhanced abilities of the Black Panther with the technological resources of the most advanced nation on Earth. T'Challa understands that winning a war is not simply about defeating the strongest opponent, it is about protecting the people caught in its path. Wakanda's resources, vibranium technology, and military capabilities give him access to tools capable of supporting both the defense of Gotham and the protection of the Infinity Stones

Doctor Strange / Stephen Strange: The Sorcerer Supreme and guardian of the Time Stone. Stephen Strange has spent years protecting Earth from threats that ordinary heroes cannot even comprehend, but Thanos represents a danger on an entirely different scale. His mastery of the mystic arts gives him the ability to manipulate space, create portals, defend against supernatural attacks, and access knowledge beyond conventional science. One of Strange's greatest strengths is also his willingness to make decisions others would consider impossible.

Captain America / Steve Rogers: The soldier who never stopped fighting. Steve Rogers represents the traditional ideals of the Avengers: courage, responsibility, loyalty, and the belief that doing what is right matters even when following orders are easier. Steve has operated outside official authority alongside his own team, refusing to abandon the people who still need protection. Steve may not possess the raw power of Thor, Wanda, or Superman, but his ability to lead under impossible circumstances makes him indispensable.

Thanos: The Titan who believes mass killing is salvation. Thanos is not driven by destruction; he believes the universe has become unsustainable and to achieve his definition of “balance”, possessing ultimate power is necessary. Having already conquered countless worlds, he possesses the experience, armies, and strength necessary to challenge every hero standing against him. He currently commands the Power Stone and Space Stone, already making him one of the most powerful beings in existence. His objective remains unchanged: collect all six Stones, complete the Infinity Gauntlet, and achieve balance.

Black Widow / Natasha Romanoff: Natasha Romanoff possesses no Infinity Stone, divine weapon, or supernatural ability, yet she has repeatedly survived alongside beings vastly more powerful than herself. Years of espionage have taught her how to gather intelligence, manipulate hostile environments, identify weaknesses, and make difficult decisions without allowing emotion to interfere with the mission. Natasha has remained loyal to Steve Rogers after the Avengers' collapse and understands the importance of keeping their fractured team together.

Loki: The God of Mischief, survivor of Asgard, and brother of Thor. Loki has spent his life balancing self-interest and his complicated connection to his family. He has betrayed allies, challenged kings, manipulated entire nations, and repeatedly found himself standing beside the people he once attempted to destroy. Yet the fall of Asgard has forced him to confront something he has spent centuries avoiding: the survival of his people may depend on him. Loki surrendered the Tesseract to Thanos to save Thor, allowing the Space Stone to fall into the Titan's hands. That decision may haunt him, but Loki is not without resources. His mastery of deception, illusions, manipulation, and his understanding of Asgardian politics make him an unpredictable piece on the board.

Rocket Raccoon: A genetically engineered weapons expert with the attitude of a criminal and the skills of a military strategist. His knowledge of alien technology, explosives, weapons, spacecraft, and unconventional engineering makes him particularly valuable against an enemy whose forces operate on a scale far beyond Earth's military capabilities. Due to being a part of the Guardians of the Galaxy, Rocket is also accustomed to working with beings from completely different species and cultures.

Ebony Maw: The most terrifying mind among the Children of Thanos. Ebony Maw does not rely upon brute strength (although he does possess it, he relies upon intelligence, psychological manipulation, and extraordinary telekinetic abilities. His devotion to Thanos is almost religious, allowing him to view the Titan's doings not as crimes but as necessary acts of salvation. His ability to manipulate objects, restrain enemies, interrogate prisoners, and turn the environment itself into a weapon makes him particularly dangerous. Unlike Thanos, Maw does not need to destroy his opponents to defeat them. If Thanos is the hammer approaching Gotham, Ebony Maw is the hand already reaching through the door.

DC:

Batman (Bruce Wayne): The perfect strategist. Equipped with the tools of a billion-dollar empire and a mind that cannot be matched, Batman is the only one who stands a chance to outmaneuver Titan’s strategies. With the Avengers disintegrating, Batman’s contingency plans and mastery over the underworld of Gotham become the last resort against cosmic destruction.

Superman (Clark Kent): Earth’s godlike hero. With the destruction of Hulk by Thanos becoming a piece of cake, there was a need for a new god to take over from him. Superman will be able to challenge Thanos hand-to-hand before he can get his hands on another infinity stone.

The Flash (Barry Allen): The Crimson Comet who controls time itself. Integrated into the Speed Force, Flash can outrun any teleportation portal and intercept any attack by Black Order within seconds. With the Time Stone under threat, flash becomes the greatest wild card in the deck to rewrite absolute chaos.

Wonder Woman (Diana Prince): Immortal Amazonian demigod created to serve in heavenly battles. Wielding the Lasso of Truth and weaponries capable of slaying gods, Diana takes the lead in battles. While Thanos attempts at attaining cosmic balance through killings, Wonder Woman uses her millennia-old combat skills to annihilate his army.

Nightwing (Dick Grayson): The soul of the resistance and the best heir of Batman ever. Having been a Robin, Nightwing is now the leader of the Titans. A combination of impeccable agility and leadership skills makes him the glue that holds heroes of Earth together.

Raven (Rachel Roth): Dark witch that wields hellish magic from other dimensions. Being the daughter of the demon Trigon, Raven uses her shadow magic and ability to create projections of herself to stop Ebony Maw's telekinesis and magic attacks on the Infinity Stones.

Starfire (Koriand'r): An extraterrestrial warrior princess embodying untamed cosmic destruction. Harnessing ultraviolet energy, Starfire becomes an active starship destructor. During the invasion of Sanctuary-2, Beast Boy (Garfield Logan): Nature’s unexpected shapeshifting trump card. Having the capability to change into any creature in the galaxy at once, Beast Boy serves as an excellent infiltrator and disruptive force.

Cyborg (Victor Stone): A living techno god created with the help of alien cybernetics. Having Mother Box embedded into his body, Cyborg can hack Sanctuary-2, jam Thanos's network of tracking devices for the Mind Stone and create boom-tube portals to instantaneously transport people across the galaxy.

Green Lantern (Hal Jordan): The fearless Green Lantern Corps ace. Wielding a ring powered by sheer willpower, Hal Jordan creates hard-light energy constructs capable of repelling planetary invasions. He acts as a planetary defense of Earth against attacks from deep space.

Additional characters that are mentioned:

James Rhodes / War Machine: James Rhodes has fought beside the world's greatest heroes without ever possessing their supernatural abilities. His relationship with both Tony Stark and Steve Rogers places him in a unique position within the fractured Avengers. Rhodes understands Tony's technology and personality, yet he has also remained close to Steve's side during the aftermath of the Avengers' division.

Heimdall: Heimdall has served Asgard for centuries, standing watch over the Bifrost and protecting the Nine Realms from threats both known and unseen. His extraordinary senses allow him to perceive events across enormous distances, making him one of the few beings capable of detecting movements that ordinary technology cannot track. Even after the destruction of Asgard, Heimdall remained committed to protecting its people. His final act during Thanos's assault on the Statesman was to summon the Bifrost and send Hulk away to warn Earth, sacrificing his own life in the process.

Wong: Wong serves alongside Doctor Strange in protecting the mystical knowledge and artifacts entrusted to the Masters of the Mystic Arts. When Strange was taken by Ebony Maw, Wong remained behind to defend Earth and coordinate the remaining heroes.

Definitions:

The Avengers

The Avengers, a group of powerful heroes who unite to protect Earth from threats that cannot be handled by ordinary governments or military forces. The team includes individuals with vastly different abilities, backgrounds, and personalities, but they share the common objective of protecting humanity. In the current crisis, the Avengers have been weakened by their internal conflict and separation, forcing former members such as Tony Stark and Captain America to confront both their differences and the threat posed by Thanos.

Multiverse

The Multiverse refers to the existence of multiple parallel universes, each containing its own versions of people, events, and histories. These universes normally exist independently, but powerful disturbances involving space, time, or reality can cause them to interact. In the current crisis, the Infinity Stones have contributed to an unprecedented collision between realities, bringing the Avengers into contact with Gotham and the heroes of another universe. The stability of both universes is now at risk.

Morally Gray Character

A morally gray character is a character whose decisions cannot be clearly classified as either good or evil. This can describe the actions or stance of many characters, starting with Thanos's salvation plan all the way to Batman's "no gun policy". Rather than following a strict moral code, such a character may make questionable decisions for understandable reasons, prioritize personal interests, or commit harmful actions while believing they are serving a greater purpose. In a crisis committee, morally gray characters can create unpredictable alliances because their objectives may not completely align with either side. Characters such as Loki demonstrate how loyalty, self-interest, and morality can overlap.

Gotham

Gotham City is the major city protected by Batman and the Bat Family and serves as the primary setting of the current crisis. Known for its crime, corruption, and dangerous underworld, Gotham has become something far more significant following the collision of the two universes. Technology, magic, alien forces, and supernatural abilities now exist within the city simultaneously. Most importantly, the Reality Stone is located somewhere in Gotham, making the city the central battleground between the heroes and the forces of Thanos.

Tesseract

The Tesseract is a powerful cosmic artifact that contains the Space Stone, one of the six Infinity Stones. Before the events of the current crisis, it was associated with Asgard and was eventually kept by Loki. When Thanos attacked the Asgardian refugee vessel, he demanded the Tesseract in exchange for Thor's life. Loki ultimately surrendered it, allowing Thanos to crush the Tesseract and extract the Space Stone.

Sanctum Sanctorum

The Sanctum Sanctorum is the primary residence and magical headquarters of Doctor Strange in New York City. It serves as a place of protection, magical research, and defense against supernatural threats. The Sanctum also contains powerful mystical knowledge and artifacts, making it one of Earth's most important magical strongholds.

Eye of Agamotto

The Eye of Agamotto is a powerful mystical artifact used by Doctor Strange. Within it is the Time Stone, allowing its wielder to manipulate and observe time through mystical abilities. Doctor Strange has used the Eye as a means of protecting and controlling the Time Stone, making it one of the most important artifacts in the current conflict. Because the Time Stone can influence the flow of time itself, keeping it away from Thanos is one of the heroes' highest priorities.

Background:

The Multiverse:

The universe is not the only reality out there. There is something bigger than the Multiverse, an infinite series of alternative universes, each with its own history, people, and events.

For many years, these realities had existed independently, ignorant of each other. The heroes of one universe would lead completely different lives than those of another universe. But these realities do not have impermeable boundaries.

When certain strong forces interfere with space, time, or reality itself, these universes may interact with each other.

The recent events concerning the Infinity Stones have created a situation where one reality can influence more than one other. This conflict may no longer be confined to one single universe.

The bat family:

The Bat Family consists of many vigilantes in Gotham and its outskirts. They all have their personalities, styles of fighting, relationships with Batman, and so on. Some have been taught by him; some became his allies like Nightwing, previously known as Robin; some developed their own personalities and continue to follow his path. But even with their differences they have one shared objective:

To protect Gotham!

The infinity stones:

Since the very beginning of existence, there have been six extremely powerful artifacts that have been known as the Infinity Stones existing throughout the universe.

Each of these Stones controls the following fundamental forces of reality:

1. Space Stone: controls space and helps its holder travel through vast distances.
2. Mind Stone: controls consciousness and its abilities.
3. Reality Stone: can alter reality itself.
4. Power Stone: has an immense power that can be used for destruction.
5. Time Stone: enables its holder to control time.
6. Soul Stone: has mysterious powers, linked to life and soul.

These Stones are extremely powerful on their own.

If united, however, they would enable their holder to control almost all of the fundamental forces of existence.

ASGARD:

Asgard is where the Asgardians live. An ancient race of beings who have protected the Nine Realms for many years.

In the past, Asgard was under the rule of Odin and his sons Thor and Loki. Through all these years, Asgard has suffered through many wars, many invasions, betrayals, and destructions.

Just recently, Asgard was destroyed. But Thor and the rest of the Asgardians fled using the refugee spaceship called the Statesman that had with them the survivors of their race.

And according to Thor, even if they no longer have a home, Asgard still exists.

“Asgard is not a place. It’s the people.”

But their fleeing didn’t last long. Thanos caught up with the refugee spaceship and wanted the Tesseract, which holds the Space Stone.

Captain America & Tony Stark:

Once, Steve Rogers and Tony Stark were the strongest leaders of the Avengers.

They stood shoulder to shoulder during many of Earth’s biggest battles. However, their friendship finally fell apart.

Steve thought the Avengers should be autonomous and be able to make their decisions on their own, while Tony thought that more responsibility was needed to account for the destruction done during their battles.

Their conflict became very personal. Finally, the Avengers broke apart. Steve and Tony found themselves on different sides of the fence.

They have not talked since then. Tony is still very upset about how everything ended.

Steve has been continuing to work with his own team, avoiding the official Avengers.

Neither of them has been able to put this situation behind them.

However, now, with the appearance of Thanos, both heroes must face the danger which neither of them can overcome on their own.

The DC–Marvel Collision:

The universe is an interesting place, isn't it? No matter how powerful you become, there is always something waiting to remind you that power is relative. Just a few minutes ago Thor was a hero. He had saved Asgard, defeated its greatest monster and emerged victorious from the destruction of his home. After everything he had survived, Thor had every reason to believe that everything was, for once, going to be okay." Asgard is not a place where it's the people "was the shield he and many others repeated in hope. But that hope quickly shattered at the sight of THE MASSIVE FORM OF SANCTUARY-2, approaching.

[Asgardian PA]: This is the Asgardian refugee vessel Statesman! We are under assault, I repeat, we are under assault – The engines are dead, life support failing! Requesting aid from any vessel within range... We are 22 jump points out of Asgard. Our crew is made up of Asgardian families; we have very few soldiers here! This is not a war craft, I repeat, this is not a war craft!

Inside the ship, Ebony Maw walks among the bodies of dead Asgardians. He steps over them as he speaks with no mind, as if they were scattered pieces of dirty clothing on a bedroom floor

"Hear me and rejoice. You have had the privilege of being saved by the Great Titan. You may think this is suffering. No... It is salvation. Universal scales tip toward balance because of your sacrifice. Smile... For even in death, you have become Children of Thanos."

That's when a large, purple-skinned humanoid with a broad face, metallic looking man starts his speech. It's Thanos. In a low voice, authoritative enough to make a grown man shiver, he begins saying" I know what it's like to lose. To feel so desperate that you're right... yet to fail, nonetheless. It's frightening. Turns the legs to jelly. I ask you, what end? Dread it. Run from it. Destiny arrives all the same. And now, it's here. Or should I say... I AM."

Thanos holds up his hand to reveal the Infinity Gauntlet which already hosts the Power Stone, as it hums and glows brighter.

Thor, exhaustedly spitting blood from his mouth. "You talk too much. "But Thanos didn't seem to mind him as he turns towards Loki" The Tesseract, or your brother's head. I assume you have a plan Loki" The" Loki didn't bat an eye "Oh, I do. Kill away!"

Thanos sets the gauntlet on Thor's face. The red ring glows brightly while Thor suffers in pain.

And maybe that was enough to change Loki's mind, because almost immediately he exclaimed while cringing and looking away from his brother's pain" ALRIGHT, STOP!"

Thor says" We don't have the Tesseract. It was destroyed on Asgard."

But then Loki glances at Thor like he knows something he doesn't. he lifts his right hand into the air and the Tesseract reveals itself

Thor grunts." You really are the worst, brother"

Loki says while holding the Tesseract out to Thanos and advancing" I assure you, brother, the Sun will shine on us again." To which Thanos responded" Your optimism is misplaced, Asgardian."

Loki scoffed "Well, for one thing: I'm not Asgardian. And for another... We have a Hulk." In one swift move dives out of the way as The Hulk emerges and attacks Thanos by surprise. Hulk roars and throws several Punches. Thanos gets forced into the wall of the ship.

Ebony Maw stops Cull Obsidian from interfering, calmly ordering "Let him have his fun."

Thanos grabs Hulk's wrists and breaks free, Hulk soon found the Titan's strength to be superior to his own, and his grip on Thanos was quickly overcome and he was subsequently punched by Thanos in the face. Hulk then repeatedly attempted to strike back, but Thanos displayed a vast superiority and proceeded to block all his blows and punches, leaving him completely stunned. Finally, Hulk was punched in the face by Thanos' knee which left him completely dazed before he was beaten within an inch of his life. Thor tries to interfere but fails.

A few steps away, Heimdall was laying on the ground surrounded with nothing but weakness and blood "All fathers... let the dark magic flow through me one last... time." He whispers, summoning the Bifrost, which carries the Hulk away.

Thanos hissed “That was a mistake.” and stabs Heimdall through the heart.

Thor shouts "NOOOOO!!! You're going to die for that!

Ebony Maw shuts Thor's mouth as he holds the tesseract to Thanos” My humble personage... bows before your grandeur. No other being has ever had the might, nay the nobility, to wield not one, but two Infinity Stones. The universe lies within your grasp.”

Thanos crushes the Tesseract, revealing the Space Stone. He places it on the infinity gauntlet.

Thanos “There are two more stones on Earth. Find them, my children, and bring them to me on Titan

. Corvus Glaive replies” Father, we will not fail you.”

Ever since the Avengers had gone their separate ways, Tony Stark had settled into the closest thing to a routine he could commit to. Contrary to what everyone had expected, the playboy genius found himself quite content with the slower pace of life, far removed from the chaos of the Avengers and, for once, simply enjoying life with Pepper.

That’s what he was doing anyways when a tall, fair-skinned man with a weird attire merged through a portal and said in a semi-serious tone” Tony Stark, I'm Doctor Stephen Strange. I need you to come with me.”

To which Tony replied, confused. “‘I’m sorry, you are giving out tickets or something?”

Dr. Strange answered” We need your help. Look, it's not overselling to say that the fate of the universe is at stake.”

“And who's “we”?”

That’s when Bruce Banner emerges behind Doctor Strange” Hey, Tony.” And just like that, tony stark’s summer was over

-Back at the Sanctum Sanctorum-

Wong was using magic to show the universe and five out of six Infinity Stones “From the dawn of the universe, there was nothing. Then, boom! The Big Bang sent six elemental crystals, hurdling across the virgin universe. These Infinity Stones each control an essential aspect of existence."

Doctor Strange explained" Space. Reality. Power. Soul. Mind. And Time." he then proceeded to open the Eye of Agamotto, revealing the Time Stone.

Bruce Banner adds with worry all over his face "He's a plague, Tony. He invades planets, he takes what he wants, he wipes out half the population."

"...What's our timeline?" Tony finally speaks

"No telling. He has the Power and Space Stones, that already makes him the strongest creature in the whole universe! If he gets his hands, on all six Stones, Tony..." Bruce answers.

" Our oath to protect the Time Stone cannot change. This Stone may be the best chance we have against Thanos. "Doctor Strange explains

"And still conversely, it may also be his best chance against us." Tony says sharply before Bruce intervenes "Okay, guys, can we table this discussion right now? The fact is that we have this, Stone. We know where it is. Vision is out there somewhere with the Mind Stone, and we must find him now."

"Yeah, that's the thing. "Tony says awkwardly as Bruce shoots him a look "What do you mean?"

"Two weeks ago, Vision turned off his transponder. "

"Who could find Vision, then?" asks Doctor Strange

"Shit. "Perhaps Steve Rogers." answers Tony.

Hearing that, Bruce urges him, unaware. "Call him."

To which Tony responds “The Avengers broke up. We're toast.”

“Broke up? Like a band? Like The Beatles?”

” Cap and I fell out hard. We're not on speaking terms.” Tony explains

At that moment the conversation was interrupted with loud screams outside, which were caused by the sight of a giant ship, seen floating near Bleecker Street.

Ebony Maw declares “Hear me and rejoice. You are about to die at the hands of the Children of Thanos. Be thankful that your meaningless lives are now contributing to…”

Tony Stark interrupts “I’m sorry, Earth is closed today. You better pack it up and get outta here.”

Ebony Maw turns to Look at Strange” Stone keeper... Does this chattering animal speak for you?”

Doctor Strange replies “Certainly not. I speak for myself. But you're trespassing in this city and on this planet”.

Tony adds” He means get lost Squidward!”

Ebony Maw says as he rolls his eyes, seemingly bored out of his mind “He exhausts me. Bring me the Stone.”

That sentence alone sparked a gruesome fight involving Doctor Strange, Wong, Iron Man, and what seemed to be a very unstable Bruce Banner, who had once again failed to summon the Hulk. The battle resulted in the disappearance of one of Thanos’s children, while Ebony Maw carried the unconscious body of Doctor Strange onto the spaceship, along with the Time Stone. The same ship was soon detected by Iron Man and Spider-Man, who managed to remain aboard as it left Earth, while Wong and Bruce were left behind in a newly devastated New York.

. Wong, alone and not very certain says “The Time Stone's been taken. The Sanctum remains unguarded. What will you do?”

“I'm going to make a call.” Bruce Holds up Tony’s phone as he types the name “Steve Rogers”. Wong nods in understanding and closes the portal

After Tony gets on the spaceship, he discovers Peter has secretly followed. Ebony Maw is torturing Doctor Strange; Tony and Peter intervene. Tony blasts a hole in the ship's hull, causing Maw and Strange to be pulled toward space. Strange's cloak briefly catches him, but he slips free, so Peter uses a web to grab Strange while his Iron Spider suit's mechanical legs anchor him to the ship. Peter pulls Strange back inside, while Tony seals the hole with his nanotech, sending Maw back to Thanos and successfully saving Strange.

"We've got to turn this ship around. "Strange says sternly which was met with Tony's sarcasm

- "Yeah. Now he wants to run. Great plan."

- "No, I want to protect the stone."

- "And I want you to thank me. Go ahead. I'm listening."

- "For what? Nearly blasting me into space?" Strange snaps back

- "Who just saved your magical ass? Me."

- "I seriously don't know how you fit your head into that helmet."

Tony rolls his eyes and continues arguing with strange "Admit it. You should have ducked it out when I told you to. I tried to bench you. You refused."

"Unlike everyone else in your life, I don't work for you." Strange insists, anger rising in his voice.

"And due to that fact, we're now in a flying doughnut billions of miles away from Earth with no backup."

that's when Peter Parker interrupts the conversation "um mr stark sorry for interrupting but you might want to see this "he says as he awkwardly points at a large screen lighting with live coordinates to the remaining stones.

"Stark…." says Strange as he slowly approaches the screen

"I know..." says Tony with sudden seriousness in his face

"These changes ... everything "

“What does?” says Peter, seemingly not understanding anything

-Back on Earth, COL. RHODES deals with cap’s team. -

Steve Rogers was anxiously scanning the latest coordinates. “Still no word from Vision? “James Rhodes glanced down at the screen. “Satellites lost him somewhere over Edinburgh. “He then paused, looking over at his long-missed friend.

“It’s great to have you again, Cap.” to which Steve smiled “You too, Rhody.”

“Well. You guys, really look like crap. Must've been a rough couple of years.” Rhodes said sarcastically, To Which Captain America replied while looking at a seemingly very injured yet still standing Loki and Thor “I can say the same “he then turned his gaze to glance at Rocket Raccoon

And before anyone could reply, a tired, but familiar voice emerged through the door “Uh, I think you look great. Yeah. I'm back.”

“Hi, Bruce.” Natasha smiled

“Nat.” Bruce nodded then proceeded to explain “I'm afraid the danger caused by vision’s disappearance goes far beyond that of his own safety. Okay, look... Thanos has the biggest army in the Universe. And he is not gonna stop until he... He gets...Vision's stone.”

“Well then, we have to protect it.”

“Great idea, but in order to do that we might want to find it, and all of the other stones, first” Natasha replies sarcastically.

“That i can help with “The voice came from behind them. Everyone turned sharply, only to find Tony Stark standing in the doorway. A stunned silence fell over the room.
“Tony !!”’ Burce said in disbelief as he takes a step closer. as if making sure he was real.

“Hello, Bruce.” Tony scanned the room before his eyes settled on the others. “Cap… Nat... Wanda.” He gave them a small nod of acknowledgment, which Natasha and Steve returned.

“But I thought you were...” Bruce’s voice cuts the awkward tension again as he tries to navigate how things played out this way.

“Alone in space? Completely hopeless? Half dead? Yeah, I thought so too “Tony says with his usual confidence.

“What happened? you said you found the other stones ““not but a stone “Tony says as he steps forward and in a swift move, he opens a portal, like that of Doctor Strange’s.

A small “woah” escaped Bruce as they passed through the portal

“Avengers “Doctor Strange welcomed with a hint of a smile he couldn't quite hide, presumably because of the group of armed strangers standing behind him.

“Who are you “Captain America was the first to ask

“We… are the Justice League,” answered a tall man wearing a black mask, probably named something ridiculous like Batman.

“And the Titans “added a green boy teasingly.

Another stranger then declared with the confidence of an alien prince. Not technically a prince, Tony assumed, but after years of knowing Thor, he had developed a fairly accurate radar for that sort of thing.

“You must be the Avengers ... welcome to Gotham “

Timeline:

The Fall of Asgard

Thanos ambushes the Asgardian refugee vessel demanding the Tesseract. Loki yields the artifact exposing the Space Stone within. With the Power Stone already in his grasp, Thanos now commands two Infinity Stones: Power and Space.

The Warning in New York

Crash landing into the Sanctum Sanctorum, the Hulk warns Tony Stark, Doctor Strange and Wong of the incoming cosmic threat. The heroes quickly assess the board: the remaining stones are scattered with strange guarding the Time Stone and Vision harboring the Mind Stone.

The Ambush of Ebony Maw

Ebony Maw descends upon New York and abducts Doctor Strange to claim the Time Stone. Tony Stark and Spider Man pursue Maw's warship, staging a rescue to secure Strange and keep the Time Stone safely in hero hands.

Intercepted Coordinates

While infiltrating Maw's ship, Peter Parker stumbles upon encrypted vector data tracking the unlocated stones. The telemetry points to an uncharted anomaly outside their known reality: Gotham City.

Universes Collide

Tracking the signal, Tony, Strange, and the Avengers cross into Gotham, coming face to face with Batman, the Justice League, and the Titans. As tension flares, both factions realize the fabric of their shifting realities is actively tearing apart around the Infinity Stones.

Investigating the breach, the joint team discovers the Reality Stone is bound by an ancient structural failsafe. The cosmic forces cannot simply be extracted, accessing the remaining stones demands an impossible price: one Infinity Stone must be willingly destroyed or surrendered.

The Onset of War

With Thanos closing in on Earth to complete his Gauntlet, the allied heroes face a brutal tactical dilemma. They must fortify Gotham, locate the Soul Stone and answer a devastating question: which Stone are they willing to sacrifice to keep the cosmos from collapsing?

Current Situation — The Siege of Gotham:

-Gotham City-11:47 P.M.-

The streets of Gotham are no longer entirely Gotham. Technology, magic, alien energy, and forces from another universe now exist in the same city.

At the center of the collision lies a secret that could determine the fate of both universes:

The Reality Stone is in Gotham.

The Avengers, Justice League, and Titans have gathered in the city, but cooperation between them is fragile. None of them fully understand why the two universes have collided or what Gotham has to do with the Infinity Stones.

Then comes the greater threat.

Thanos is coming.

Thanos currently possesses:

 Power Stone

 Space Stone

The Time Stone remains with the heroes while the Mind Stone is with Vision whose location is currently unknown. The Soul Stone has not yet been located.

Thanos's objective is simple:

Collect all six Infinity Stones and complete the Infinity Gauntlet then use the power provided to eliminate half of the universe.

But Gotham contains a problem Thanos does not yet fully understand.

To stop Thanos, one stone must be destroyed, and the Infinity Stone must be sacrificed. But even then, he will remain one of if not the strongest creatures in the universe.

The heroes now face an impossible decision:

Should they sacrifice one Stone and stop Thanos from gaining ultimate power or use the power of the stone to their advantage.

But once a Stone is sacrificed, it is gone.

There is no guarantee that the sacrifice will be enough to stop Thanos.

Meanwhile, Thanos's forces are approaching Gotham.

The Avengers and Justice League have only a limited amount of time to:

* Defend Gotham from Thanos's forces.
* Protect the Stones currently in their possession.
* Discover the whereabouts of Vision and the Mind Stone.
* Understand the secret behind the Reality Stone.
* Decide which Infinity Stone can be sacrificed.
* Prevent Thanos from obtaining the remaining Stones.

The fate of two universes now depends on you now.

Questions to ask yourself:

- Is my character willing to sacrifice an infinity stone, or do they believe it is essential to kill Thanos?
- Is my character willing to trust and cooperate with heroes from another universe? How strong is that trust?
- Is my character more concerned with protecting their city's civilians or preventing Thanos from collecting the Stones?
- Is my character willing to risk their own life (or someone else's) to save the multiverse?
- Is my character hiding fear, loyalty, or a personal motive that could affect their decisions when the battle begins?
- How would my character's traits and abilities aid the team in its objective?
- did my character's previous interaction with Thanos affect their behavior in the battlefield